

Turnpike Law Changes Tangle Special Session

Legislators Hear 13 People Oppose Parts Of Act Last Night

COLUMBUS (AP)—A flurry of new amendments today tangled work of a special session of the Legislature called to change the turnpike law so construction can start next year.

The House Judiciary Committee summoned the Turnpike Commission chairman to testify at an executive meeting in the hope of solving the problem. He is Attorney James W. Shocknessy of Columbus.

The committee heard 12 witnesses oppose various parts of the turnpike act last night. The meeting lasted until 12:15 a.m.

The rest of the Legislature ended the first day of the special session at 8:45 p.m. It began at 2:15 p.m. with a personal appeal by Gov. Lausche to change the eminent domain sections of the turnpike act to speed financing of the 240-mile toll superhighway across northern Ohio.

Predict Failure

Turnpike opposition led legislators to predict failure of an emergency clause in the administration-backed change. A few dissenters defied the proposal but leaders still felt it would pass.

Emergency legislation that became effective on enactment requires a two-thirds favorable vote in both houses. Regular legislation requiring a majority vote takes effect 90 days after enactment.

The governor has said failure to change the law would doom the turnpike for the "foreseeable future." Its construction, he said, "will strengthen the highway system of Ohio without adding any financial burden from taxation."

The Commission plans to build the $310,000,000 turnpike from sale of revenue bonds to private investors. Bankers want the law changed so they can sell the bonds immediately.

They object to the present law that requires settlement of all court suits over the price of land before the Commission can take either a right-of-way. They want authority for the Commission to take condemned land and pay for it after courts finally decide a price.

Proposed Amendments

Amendments proposed last night were:

1. The dammers and others when a jury first sets a price on their condemned land without preparing their appeal to higher courts for adjustment.
2. Require the Turnpike Commission to get approval of city councils before it can route a toll road through municipalities.
3. Require competitive bids on other types of paving material besides concrete and award contracts to the lowest bidder.
4. Amend to build of concrete.

The Turnpike Commission has voted unanimously to build the toll road of concrete. Asphalt paving contractors object to that.

Engineers estimate a concrete road will require 200,000 tons of steel. The federal government has turned down an initial allotment of $5,000 tons.

An objection to the turnpike route was Mrs. Anne Keller of Canfield, Youngstown suburb. She said it would spoil Mill Creek Park.

County Seal Sales Near Halfway Mark

Columbiana County's Christmas Seal sale climbed to $13,955 Monday, almost halfway to the $25,000 goal, according to Miss Lillian Schneider, executive secretary of the Public Health League.

Schneider said she will be mailing the seals to residents who have not yet acknowledged their seal orders. It was announced by Dr. J. H. Cagle of Salem, county chairman.

The sale closes officially Dec. 22. Proceeds will be used for the association's 1952 program, including three three X-rays for children, high schools and neighborhood groups.

See E. Mendenhall's report for the Youngstown Herald for $5,222 collected toward the goal of $5,000.

Assembly President Resigns in Protest

STRASBOURG, France (AP)—Paul Henri, Speaker of Belgium parliament today as president of the European Assembly in protest against its "timid policy" shortly after the Assembly proposed a limited international "political authority" to control the project of European army.

Speaker's letter of resignation made no mention of the plan for army control, the latest in a long series of waterings down of sweeping proposals for European unity. The compromise on the army plan was designed to secure British backing for the European force, even if Britain will not join the army.

Occupant of West Twp. House Denies Charges of Neighbors

BULLETIN

Judge Joel H. Sharp this morning issued a temporary restraining order against Nick and Eva Stanch of Alliance, owners, and Miss Joyce Marlowe, alleged operator of a disorderly house, and set Thursday, Jan. 3 as the date for the final hearing on the matter.

LISBON—An injunction hearing to padlock an alleged disorderly house in Knox Township continued this morning before Judge Joel H. Sharp in Common Pleas Court with Nick and Eva Stanch of Alliance, owners, on the witness stand.

Joyce Marlowe, co-defendant, tenant and alleged operator, testified Monday she runs a restaurant "specializing in spaghetti and salads" and showed a restaurant license issued Sept. 12 as proof.

The Stanches claim Miss Marlowe pays them $60 a month for the six-room brick house, located at the southwest corner of Route 62 on the Homeworth Rd. As far as they know, everything is in order, they said.

Miss Marlowe submitted in evidence a copy of her marriage license to Bernie Bernard, known to Alliance police as a petty gambler, who died Oct. 28 of injuries received in an Alliance traffic accident. The name used on the marriage license was Kay Straigis, which Miss Marlowe claims, is her maiden name. Bernie suggested she use the name Marlowe, she said.

Capt. A. M. Barnhouse of the Alliance police force remembered Miss Marlowe as the "madam" or "house mother" at an E. Jersey St. place "before the row was closed up tight two years ago." He said she never was arrested.

Most damaging testimony came from six Homeworth Rd. residents who said they've been plagued by carloads of men trying to find Bernie Bernard's place. All the women recalled verbal insults from the men. The group included E. P. Vinez and his wife, Mrs. Margaret Vinez, H. W. Bandy, Mrs. Irene DeGaspero, Mrs. Ina McVicker, and Edward Altshoff.

Deputy Sheriff Al Hartman, who along with Sheriff Howard Clark, had to smash down a door to raid the place in August, and Deputy Russell Van Fossen, who served the subpoena on Miss Marlowe, testified. Hartman said he and Sheriff Clark locked the driveway following the raid and turned back 16 men between 1 and 2 a.m. Van Fossen said the house was finely furnished.

Defense witness was Dean Leatherberry of Augusta, state inspector, who said he made six trips to the house after Miss Marlowe made application for a restaurant license July 23. The state fire marshal's office issues restaurant licenses.

Leatherberry claimed the house could be used as a restaurant, noting small tables capable of seating more than 25 people. Questioned about the stove, he said it was a regulation kitchen stove with four burners and an oven.

Truman, McKinney Confer On Tax Scandal Cleanup

War Prisoner Exchange Talk Began At Munsan

U. N., Communists Still Far Apart On Plans, However

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Truce negotiators discussed exchange of war prisoners today for the first time and immediately tangled on how to do it.

The Communists proposed all prisoners be released by both sides when an armistice is reached. The United Nations insisted on a "fair and equitable" exchange, which was interpreted as a man-for-man swap.

The prisoner question was taken up by a two-man subcommittee (one from each side) a few minutes after the Communists capitulated to Allied insistence that the subject be tackled now.

Simultaneously the Red negotiators intimated they would agree to neutral behind-the-lines inspection during a Korean armistice.

The Red concessions rekindled hopes of a possible truce by Christmas.

The Reds complained that a U.N. plane bombed and strafed the security area surrounding their Kaesong headquarters. But it appeared the incident would be smoothed over. Neither side seemed desirous of making it a major incident.

There has been no official word on how many prisoners the Reds hold. But Lt. Col. Howard M. Levie, U.N. spokesman, said Communist broadcasts reported 139,000 U.N. and South Korean troops were held by the Reds.

"Roughly I'd say we hold 100,000 North Koreans and between 15,000 and 20,000 Chinese," Levie said.

Policeman's Slayer Traced To Maryland

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP)—Two county policemen may have wounded a west coast hoodlum being hunted for the murder of a Cleveland cop.

They exchanged shots late last night with a man found sleeping in a car stolen from a Cleveland suburb Sunday morning, the day after the slaying.

He is believed to be George F. Ross, 27-year-old burglar and ex-convict, charged with the Cleveland murder. There has been a nation-wide hunt for him since Saturday.

A filling station one half mile east on U. S. 40 from the scene of last night's gunfire was found burglarized this morning.

The station's first aid kit was missing. Some candy and cigarettes were gone.

The owner, Jack Kiri, reported a blanket was stolen from his car, parked in front of the house 100 yards away.

Police found the first aid kit, two blankets, some candy wrappers and cigarette butts in the woods about a quarter of a mile south of the express highway.

One of the blankets belonged to Kiri. It had blood on it. The contents of the first aid kit were gone.

Lt. Martin M. Pundick, leading a squad of Maryland state police in the manhunt, declined to speculate whether all this meant Ross had been wounded when he was flushed from the car last night.

Community Christmas Tree Object of Search

Who has a Christmas tree, tall enough for Salem's community celebration? This question is puzzling Ward Zeller, manager of the Memorial building.

Up until last year the city's yule tree came from the L. J. Kirk farm near Fairfield, Mr. Kirk's father having planted the pines for a windbreak. Now all have been cut down.

Last year a tree was donated by a Salem resident, who helped to solve the problem. But this year, Mr. Zeller has been unable to secure one, thus far.

The community tree, which is strung with beautifully colored bubs, is always a highlight in the city's trimmings.

Hit-Skip Victim, 19, In Good Condition

The condition of Jack Gillis, 19, of East Palestine, struck by a hit-skip car early Sunday morning on Route 14, a mile west of Unity, was reported in good condition today in Salem City Hospital.

Gillis and a companion, Richard Berresford, 21, of East Palestine were struck as they were walking along the highway to a local companion Richard Schreckengost, 20, also of East Palestine, whose car had left the road and overturned. Berresford sustained bruises on the left leg.

The hit-skip car went off the road and into a ditch after the mishap and its driver abandoned the auto and fled. The license plates on the car were reported to have been issued to a Toledo man.

The state highway patrol investigated the mishap but has never released a report on the accident.

Amvet Post Begins Drive To Aid Needy

Containers to collect food for baskets to needy families have been placed in downtown stores. Robert Shot, Amvet Post commander, announced today.

Saturday, Dec. 22, will be the final day for Salemites to put in their food items. Containers will be picked up from business places when each is full, Commander Shot said.

The post will receive names of families in need from the Salvation Army and Red Cross and baskets will be made up for distribution as soon as possible. Post funds will be used to purchase items that are not donated.

The slogan for the posters above containers is: "Give! You'll Feel Better For It."

DEFENDS BUSINESS ETHICS—Democratic National Chairman Frank E. McKinney shows newsmen a copy of the New York Herald-Tribune with front page story of a deal in which he was alleged to have made $74,000 on a $100,000 investment in a now bankrupt firm. McKinney said the profit was about $68,000 on stock held less than a year in the Empire Tractor Co. of Philadelphia, and that there was "nothing unethical" about the transaction—the had "made others that were more lucrative than this."

Attorney General Defends Caudle's $5,000 Commission

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney General J. Howard McGrath today defended the propriety of a $5,000 commission received by a Lamar Caudle on an airplane sale but conceded it was a "unique case."

As for some of the other activities of his ousted former assistant attorney general, McGrath said:

Retail Food Prices Climb To New High

WASHINGTON (AP)—Retail food prices reached a new high on Nov. 26, after climbing 1.4 per cent in the previous 11 days, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

The rise was attributed to higher prices for fresh fruits and vegetables, dairy products, lamb and eggs.

The Bureau said the Nov. 26 prices were 23.45 per cent of the 1935-39 total. This was approximately 2.6 per cent higher than in the previous month and 15 per cent above the level of June 15, 1950, just before the Korean war.

A survey of eight cities showed that fresh fruit and vegetables prices rose 10 per cent between Nov. 15 and 26. The Bureau said this was more than the usual seasonal increase because all items were higher except oranges.

The increase ranged from tomatoes, up 27 per cent, to potatoes, nine per cent, and carrots, eight per cent.

The report said prices of canned and dried fruits and vegetables rose slightly, while frozen items generally were somewhat lower.

Cheese dropped one per cent but all other dairy items advanced, for an overall increase of 0.7 per cent.

Meats, poultry and fish averaged 0.4 per cent less, due to decreased pork prices because of seasonal abundance.

Sugar and sweets, fats and oils, all were slightly higher on Nov. 26, compared to the middle of the month.

Dems Chairman Defends Own $68,000 Profit

President May See McGrath; Fulbright Demands Airing

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman arranged to talk today to Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney, who has called for a "dramatic and drastic" cleanup in the wake of spreading tax scandals.

McKinney himself has been under fire for a stock deal in which he turned over a quick $68,000 profit on a $1,000 investment. Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) said today there ought to be a full public airing of the transaction "for the good of the party."

McKinney was put on the White House calling list for a mid-afternoon appointment. There was no announcement on the subject of their conference, but it seemed certain they would discuss conditions exposed by the house tax investigation.

President May Act

Mr. Truman cut short a Florida vacation and flew back here Sunday amid rumors that he was planning some sensational move in the tax matters. These reports said Mr. Truman might assign FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to a government-wide inquiry or might name a bipartisan commission to investigate.

Fulbright sounded his call for an airing of the McKinney stock deal after the party leader hit back at critics of the transaction.

"This thing ought to be looked into, and clearly explained," Fulbright told a reporter. The Arkansas senator, who has often had differences with the Truman administration, commented that when McKinney was tapped for the party chairmanship, "none of us from the South was consulted."

McKinney Defends Action

McKinney vigorously denied at a news conference yesterday that he had been in any "shady venture." He said the stock deal questioned as a 68-to-1 profit actually yielded a 4-to-1 profit, because he put into it, altogether, $26,000.

McKinney conceded that he got back $68,000 after ten months on a $1,000 investment in common stock. But, he said, he had to buy $25,000 of preferred stock along with the common, and sold that back at no profit.

Some Democrats as well as Republicans say they believe that charges of corruption in high office may become a major issue in next year's campaign.

The White House said yesterday Mr. Truman probably would meet "soon" with Attorney General McGrath. The Justice Department has been under fire along with the Internal Revenue Bureau, in the tax inquiry.

Without direct reference to McKinney's explanation of the stock transaction, which took place before he succeeded William M. Boyle Jr., as national chairman Oct. 31, Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) told reporters:

"The sooner we get malfeasance out of office, the better it will be. Nothing could give the people more assurance than to clean house."

"There must also be a new concept of public service where the line will be drawn, not between what is legal and what is illegal, but between what is right and what is wrong."

Boyle quit as Democratic chairman after denying he had attempted to use his influence to help a St. Louis printing firm obtain a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan.

Cardinal Spellman Plans Christmas Mass in Korea

NEW YORK (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman will spend Christmas with troops in Korea. He says he wants to celebrate mass on the holiday in three places as near the front lines as possible.

The Cardinal said last night that his plane trip will be on the invitation of Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander. The Cardinal said Van Fleet wrote him on Oct. 22.

"I much prefer bringing Christmas to our boys in Korea than being in St. Patrick's Cathedral and eating, letters; Managers, on the day," Cardinal Spellman said. "I shall remain as long as William Powers, letters, necessary to visit every combat Wilbur Beck, Don Patchen, Nat. unit."

J. R. C. Drive For Members Over Top

One hundred percent membership in the Junior Red Cross "enrollment for service campaign" has been chalked up by students in Salem's six schools.

An excellent record also was achieved in Goshen Township at Damascus which participated in the campaign for the first time this year. Five elementary grades directed by Miss Mary French, have signed and 175 Junior and Senior High School students, led by Miss Daisy Stackhouse have become members.

Pack Boxes

Also to the Damascus School credit are the 135 gift boxes packed with health and educational items for overseas shipping. Included are pens, paper, soap cloth, needle, thread and small toys.

Many of the Damascus students made a present of their boxes to the Red Cross. A correspondence album will be started soon with schools in Switzerland.

Miss Stackhouse is in charge of the correspondence program for Damascus and Mrs. John Vance arranges for the international letter writing for Salem. Mrs. E. G. Farrington will direct the gift box project for Salem and students here will complete the packing prior to vacation.

Safety Aided

Safety material is being distributed by Mrs. Orien Naragon through the schools. Salem schools and the Red Cross teacher-sponsor in each school includes: St. Paul, Sister Therese; Buckeye, Miss Ruth Martin; McKinley, Mrs. Edward Konnerth; Prospect, Mrs. Edith Goodman; Reilly, Miss Ruth Maple; Junior High grades, Mrs. Ernest Horton; Junior High, Mrs. Bess Cline, and Salem High School, Mrs. Louis Mulbach. Mobilizer Wilson Lauds Military Production

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson said if Joseph Stalin could have attended an industrial ceremony here today the Communist ruler "might drop his dream of being able to dominate a living force like ours."

The production chief spoke at the dedication of a new aluminum plant at Chalmette, a suburb south of New Orleans.

Actual deliveries of military goods now run $2,000,000,000 worth a month, he said. He added that production will reach a peak $4-billion-dollar-a-month clip in 1953.

"We are rapidly approaching the stage (in defense production) where weapons will flow from assembly lines in such a torrent as to inspire awe in our enemies," Wilson declared.

At 273 degrees below zero centigrade, or minus 460 degrees Fahrenheit, all heat would be removed from an object.

Put a man behind the wheel of a Cadillac—and he's very likely to stay behind the wheel of a Cadillac!

Many to many a man is driving his fifteenth Cadillac—and it is not unusual to encounter an owner who goes far beyond that figure.

Naturally, a car must offer many things in order to have such an enduring hold on the affections of those who own and drive it.

It must be as faithful and dependable as a mechanical creation of its type can be.

It must be so pleasant to drive and so easy to handle that the hours at its wheel bring rest and relaxation.

It must be so beautiful and so highly respected that it is a compliment to its owner wherever he drives.

And it must be economical, both to operate and to maintain—for luxury brings a dual pleasure when it comes with no extra penalty in cost.

In short, if a car is to have such a hold on the regard of its owners, it must be a Cadillac!

Plane to Drop 5,000 Letters To Santa Claus

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—An airlines plane was scheduled to take off from here today to air drop on the North Pole a real pole colored like a candy cane, along with 5,000 letters to Santa.

But there were plenty of straws in the Arctic winds to indicate the flight won't be made before Wednesday.

Alaska Airlines, which plans the flight with a specially outfitted DC-4, left unchanged its schedule calling for a departure from here at 5:30 p.m. The plane, "The Polar Express," was flying in from Seattle overnight.

But officials of the line privately expressed doubt that the polar flight will be made before Wednesday morning.

The weather bureau also said it had not been asked for a forecast on Pole weather and as a result did not expect the plane to leave. The bureau said it was preparing a forecast for Wednesday. It said, however, that conditions were as good as could be expected now and will be for the immediate future.

The 5,000 letters were collected by Mrs. Audree Vance who has children send letters to Santa in care of her Fairbanks, Alaska, home. She is known as "North Pole Nellie."

Another leader in the polar hop is Stan Carson, ex-Point Barrow oil worker who originated the idea of planting a real pole at the North Pole.

Ill Coed's Return To Korea Spared

OXFORD, O. (AP)—A 22-year-old Korean girl, a student at Miami University, won't have to go back to what her sponsor says would be "like pronouncing a death sentence."

The girl is Miss Pong Sun Choi. She came to Miami on a special scholarship this fall and then was found to have tuberculosis.

Miss Esther Laird, Miss Choi's sponsor here, explained to other students and townspeople that the young Korean could not remain here and receive treatment if she became a public charge.

"If we send this girl back to Korea, it would be like pronouncing a death sentence," Miss Laird said.

Sororities decided to contribute their Christmas party money. Townspeople added funds and so did a men's group at a Dayton church. Now enough has been raised to send Miss Choi to the tuberculosis sanitarium at Mt. Vernon, O., for treatment.

Miss Laird said it is expected that a nine-month rest cure at the hospital will cure the girl and that she can return to Miami to resume her studies.

Grange Master Attacks Subsidies To Farmers

COLUMBUS (AP)—National Grange Master Herschel D. Newsom said last night there is no need for the government to subsidize poor farmers when agricultural income is at its present high level.

"Certainly there can be little or no economic justification for direct production marketing administration payments to individual farmers at the present time," Newsom said.

He addressed about 1,000 delegates to the Ohio State Grange's 79th annual convention here.

He said the government could avoid subsidies to low income or inefficient farmers by assisting them to expand their operations, or by encouraging them to get out of farming while they can get other jobs.

The News From Rome

WHILE POLITICIANS and their advisers
here at home get squared away for a foreign-policy issue in 1952, impartial citizens have been fidgeting over the news from Rome.

The meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization military heads there has disclosed
that plans for a European army have misfired.
Britain has called a halt. France is veering off. Belgium has turned skittish. Belgium and Holland are turning away from the idea.

In Washington, it now is being assumed that Winston Churchill's visit next month is going to be a great deal more serious than a trip in search of money. It may turn into a trip in search of a more workable U.S. foreign policy.

Far from having to make a hard choice between growing responsibilities abroad and the siren songs of political opportunists at home, Gen. Eisenhower may find himself making an automatic decision to yield to circumstances beyond his control.

Everything which the United States has done up to this point in furtherance of cooperative security in Europe has been based on the assumption that Europe wanted to cooperate. The assumption was reasonable; European governments do want to cooperate.

But they want to cooperate on their own terms. These are not necessarily those of the United States, which has been stating the terms because it was putting up the bulk of the money to carry them out. Among the things which may look different before many months have gone by in 1952 is the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Mustard-Plaster Cure

READING THE LATEST blast by Judge Saul
S. Streit of New York against commercialized athletics in colleges, a sports fan might ask him why the country had to wait to hear these things said by a jurist.

They are not new. Judge Streit's sarcastic remarks about snap courses, basketball universities and the subdivision of amateurism to gate receipts are the same things Americans have been saying for years. Yet, when he says them in his courtroom, they have the effect of a hot mustard plaster.

The people mentioned by name yelp and scream. They issue vigorous protests against being singled out because others have done
as bad or worse. They rationalize their actions to the best of their ability, which so far has not been very extensive.

It takes no imagination to believe they will take a lively interest in cleaning their own houses from now on. The same things being said by Judge Streit could have been said any time with the same effect by the university presidents, coaches, commissioners, trustees and alumni of the institutions which commercialized their athletic programs. They all knew what was going on—far better than Judge Streit has been able to find out while digging into the backgrounds of the "students"
he has been punishing for trying to pick up some easy money, too.

Japan—Back To 1850

IT HAS BEEN pointed out in the course of recalling Pearl Harbor and early events of the war between the United States and Japan
that the latter is now reduced to the same territory it held 100 years ago.

If Japanese militarists had not committed
the historic blunder of going to war as a nominal ally of Germany and Italy, Japan today
would be the dominant power in the Pacific.
The Soviet Union would be contained within its traditional boundaries. China would be colonized by Japanese traders, instead of by Russian politicians. There would be no Russian demonstration.

The United States would be maintaining a precarious balance of power in the Pacific west of the Hawaiian Islands and relying on sea power to keep itself secure between the West Coast and the Hawaiian Islands. There also would be extensive and feverish speculation about a "yellow peril," and high-tariff
lobbyists would be in bitter pursuit of a policy to exclude Japanese manufacturers. But there would be no overt action to repress the Japanese.

In 1941 there was nothing in sight to keep
Japan from dominating the continent of Asia.
Its people had the industry, the ambition and the cohesion to carry out any reasonable plan of expansion. They were betrayed by the obsession of their militarists with dreams of conquest. The dreams became a nightmare after Pearl Harbor—an event that would have ruined Japan forever had the United States carried out the spirit of its original intent to make Dec. 7, 1941, a date which would "live in infamy."

A critic complains of the scarcity of good actors. He should turn his TV set to a pro-wrestling bout.

Gregarious George

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

Allen, White House Jester, Is Fixture

WASHINGTON
THE ONE MAN in the United States who probably can make the shrewdest prediction as to who will be the presidential candidate in 1952 is George Edward Allen.

He is most easily identified as George Allen, the White House Jester. The implication in the title that Allen is merely a jovial
buffoon couldn't be more inaccurate. Allen is a cool, smart individual who has parlayed a marvelous, ingratiating personality into big money and a position of influence in American government and business enjoyed by practically no other person in the country.

Allen's unique status behind
the national scene, as all of his innumerable close friends admit,
is due to "who" Allen knows and not "what" he knows. That's true.
But Allen also happens to know
a lot of "what."

Allen's really close association with President Truman began during the '44 campaign when Truman was running for Vice President. Allen accompanied Truman on most of his travels
during that campaign, helping write his speeches, ironing out problems along the way and generally being a genial traveling companion.

TRUMAN, like everybody else
who has had much association with Allen, became very fond of him. The President's door is always open to him.

Thus, if the President gets another four years, Allen's comfortable and influential position
in Washington is undisturbed.
But what if the President does not run?

That leaves the most likely Democratic candidate as Chief Justice Vinson. And it just so happens that Vinson is probably even a closer personal friend of Allen's than Truman. They are poker-playing cronies.

Even if somebody else is selected as Democratic candidate, Allen is his friend. Allen is a buddy of every big-shot Democrat in the country.

Should General Eisenhower be nominated by the Republicans and then win, George Allen would remain just as welcome a visitor to the White House as he is right now. When the General was called to Washington recently by the President, the only purely social event was an evening with Allen.

It was George Allen who handled the whole deal on General
Eisenhower's purchase of a farm in Gettysburg, Penn. He gave the General residency in a state with a lot of delegates to the Republican National Convention.

The way Allen has become associated with important people

is amazing. Milton Eisenhower, the General's brother became a good friend of Allen's back in 1932 when Milton was working for the Department of Agriculture.

Through Milton, Allen had heard of brother Dwight. But he didn't get to know him well until later in the early stages of the war when Allen was in London
on a special mission for President Roosevelt.

In his hilarious book, "Presidents Who Have Known Me," Allen tells how he predicted that Ike would get the job of European commander purely by accident one night at a big dinner.
When his prediction came true,
he says, everybody in London
thought he was a great friend of the General's.

ALLEN WRITES: "The fact
was that I had met Eisenhower,
if at all, only in the most casual way, although Mrs. Eisenhower and Mrs. Allen were friends. But I breathed easier when I got a message from home telling me
that my old friend Harry Butcher
had been appointed Eisenhower's aide."

"So when Eisenhower and Butcher arrived, I stated my problem. I told the General he and I were supposed to be old friends. He seemed amused by my plight and said he'd gladly take me off the hook."

"In fact, he'd put on a demonstration of our comradeship by taking me to lunch at Claridge's,
where our association would be witnessed by a maximum number of important and efficient goosies."

The association of the two men
bloomed from there.

That leaves only the possibility of Sen. Taft's election for Allen to worry about as far as a continuing White House welcome is concerned. And he is not entirely out in the cold at the Taft camp.

Allen is a member of the board of directors of the public relations and advertising firm of Hill and Knowlton which has a connection with Taft's campaign
and is supplying Taft a public relations expert who is on Taft's payroll.

In addition, Taft has a secret fondness for Allen. When Taft tried to block Allen's appointment to the RFC, Allen ended up putting Taft in stitches of laughter during the hearings and winning his approval.

Allen stoutly denies that he ever acts as political adviser to any of his close friends. If he does advise them it's the first time in U. S. political history that the same man is adviser to most of the presidential candidates. If he doesn't advise them it's singular enough to be best friend to so many of them.

Fur Traders

By TRUMAN TWILL

THE fur-traders on the Potomac are giving the mink
such a bad name that hundreds of thousands of aspiring American girls may go back to longies and snuggles.

It's a curious thing—Washington's preoccupation with mink.
Actually, there are other furs
more expensive and others in just about the same category of luxury. But day in and day out,
it's mink that gets the publicity.

In pioneer days, fur-buyers
used to give a handful of trinkets
for mink fur, because no one wanted it. But today, a fur-giver has no trouble finding traders
who will swap the nation for enough mink to cover the back of some shivering babe.

The mink coat has become the laurel wreath of success in the land of the free. It is the most sought-after fauna next to the fast buck, which is found in abundance in all part of the country, except homes for the aged, veterans' hospitals and parsonages.

While it is tough on mink wearers who can prove with canceled
checks where their last mink came from and who know with reasonable certainty where where their next one is coming froome, it cannot be doubted that mink-wearing under political circumstances has become as risky as wearing a red cap in Pennsylvania during deer-hunting season.

It raises financial questions
which may have to be answered
from coast to coast. In Washington, the mink coat is giving way to sackcloth and ashes, at least until they close the season
on two-legged fur-bearing animals.

What has happened there in connection with the amphibious
mink has made Grandpaw so leary of his ancient benny with the genuine mink collar that the old gentleman is afraid he may have gone into the tank himself, sometime.

The most conspicuous badge
of honor in the U.S.A. may become the all-wool shawl with the fringe on the bottom, the way
it used to be. There are no questions asked about a shawl.

Nor are there any unpaid balances to explain away, nor even any peculiar cross-references

such as: Mink—See Skunk.

As it happens, pretty obviously, no mink coat hangs in the hall closet at the Twillery, or this could never be written. Mink gets to be a touchy subject
among those who prefer it two to one. A woman would rather wear a mink with the balance due than a rabbit or a lamb with a clear title.

The difference now is that other people are getting sensitive about mink, too. Some of them are even allergic to it. The sight of a mink coat on a public fig-
ure's misus, barring some obvious explanation, such as her
being a mink farmer's daughter,
is as strong a case of circumstantial evidence as a tadpole in the milk.

Diplomacy—The Kind the Reds Practice

Indifference to Disloyalty

By DAVID LAWRENCE

AMERICAN people are rightly indignant over the discovery of wrongdoing in the government in connection with the tax scandals, but the wonder is that there is so little indignation expressed over the disloyalty cases almost proved to exist inside the government.

The fact that the U. S. Loyalty
Review Board found 343 Americans "ineligible" to work for their own government because they were either disloyal or because there were "reasonable doubts" as to their loyalty raises
a question as to why any Americans at all are today in that questionable status.

What is most amazing in contrast is the tendency of some "left wingers" to condone the existence of 343 persons found ineligible by the U. S. Loyalty Review Board. The usual argument made is that this is after all such a small percent out of many government employees—as if it takes tens of thousands of disloyal persons to do the damage one man—Klaus Fuchs—did when he stole the American atomic secret and gave it to Russia.

ALGER HISS has been convicted of lying about his connection with the Communist conspiracies and he occupied a most important position in the councils of his own government, being in attendance at Yalta and playing a vital part in making the policies of the Department of State. It doesn't take many Alger Hisses to pass out secret paper to the Communists. It is often argued that the disloyal are few and that to call attention to those declared ineligible or those who quit under fire is to smear the innocent by inference.

It was former Senator Hiram
W. Bingham (R., Conn.), chairman of the U. S. Loyalty Review Board, who was the first to call attention to the strange situation whereby so many persons in the government service quit
when under investigation. He made his statements in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News and World Report" Nov. 23 last,

and the article was cleared for publication by the U. S. Civil Service Commission. He said:

"Now of the 16,000 cases in which the FBI conducted full field investigations, almost half
—more than 7,200—were held by the lower boards to be worthy of future scrutiny. That is to say, the loyalty board concerned decided to send the individual an interrogatory or a letter of charges, charging him with having belonged to this or that organization on the Attorney General's list, with having associated with the Communists, with having solicited subscriptions to The Daily Worker, etc."

"THE INDIVIDUAL involved
is given at least 10 days and usually two weeks to answer such questions. The answers must be under oath and the affidavit must be sent in to the board."

"Incidentally 1,200 of these 16,
000 individuals whose cases went to loyalty boards decided before they got through answering the questionnaire or before going through a hearing, or at some point prior to a decision, that they would rather work elsewhere—perhaps they didn't care
for any more inquiry into their activities—and so they just dropped out of the federal service."

Bingham did not mention at that time an additional 1,754 who resigned from the government service before the FBI field investigations were completed. His emphasis was on the 1,591—the exact figure—who resigned while their cases were under "adjudication" by the loyalty boards but after FBI field investigation.
It will be noted that the U. S.

Loyalty Review Board takes up only "loyalty" cases and has no jurisdiction whatsoever over
what are known as "bad security risks." For some strange reason,
no figures have ever been released as to the total number of government employees who have been let out or allowed to resign
because they were found to be
"security risks."

FOR SOME strange reason, too,
there is as yet no over-all review board to check on the cases of government employees found by departmental boards to be "security risks," or exonerated from such charges. The President is giving consideration to the whole problem of "security" as distinguished from "loyalty" and it is expected that some proposal will soon be forthcoming to handle
that phase, too.

Meanwhile, the problem of how to cope with lying under oath is giving much concern.
Many persons accused of being Communists have denied publicly in the press and under oath
that they were Communists, yet
a number of ex-Communists have testified before congressional committees that many of those who denied it were known in the inner councils as Communists.

Bingham was asked whether in the cases that come before his board it could be determined whether the individuals were directly connected with foreign governments or "sympathizers."
His reply was:

"They never admit it. Of course in the usual case they deny everything. One of the things you have to do at these hearings is to try to see if they are lying or not.
An oath means nothing to the Communists."

Health To You

Relieve Ruptured Spine Disc By Surgery

ONE of the most common causes
for severe backache is a condition known as a ruptured in-tervertebral disc. Several readers have asked for a discussion of this unpleasant ailment, what treatment is best, and what the outlook is for recovery.

An intervertebral disc is a fairly soft cartilage which lies between the bony vertebrae
of the spine. It is this which gives flexibility to the back, but being softer than the vertebrae, this cartilage is susceptible to injury, strain, or other damage.

When there is pain in the lower portion of the back, or sciatica, a rupture or hernia of this cartilage must be suspected. Diagnosis is not easy but can usually be made by a careful study of the history of the pain—that is, whether it followed an injury, and similar information obtained from the patient—by the physical findings,
and by what can be seen in an X-ray film.

The X-ray, however, may not show anything immediately after the rupture has occurred. After a while, however, the rupture of a disc will cause a narrowing of the space between the bones of the vertebral column at the point where the rupture has occurred.

Usually those having a first attack of pain caused by a ruptured disc should be treated conservatively (that is, without surgery).
Also conservative treatment is advised for those who have mild attacks, attacks coming only at long intervals, those who are over 50 years old, and for those in whom the diagnosis is in doubt.

For patients with intolerable
back pain or pain along the sciatic nerve, those who have repeated severe attacks for a long period of time, and for some others, an operation may have to be considered.

The operation employed in such cases may be just removal of the ruptured disc or it may include,
in addition to removal of the disc, a fusion of binding together of the two vertebral bones
between which the disc lies.

The question of which of these operations to perform and whether or not it should be done by an orthopedic surgeon or a nerve surgeon or both together is a matter, of course, which the physician in charge alone can decide.

The discovery that ruptures of this kind can occur and can in most cases be successfully treated surgically has given relief to thousands who would otherwise have suffered for years with intolerable pain. A ruptured disc is not a pleasant thing to have at best, but it is no longer considered a permanent affliction
in most cases.

Dear Santa

By HAL BOYLE

Obedient Elf Badly Needed

NEW YORK

DEAR SANTA CLAUS:

A little girl from the Bronx wrote you recently and asked for a baby gorilla for Christmas. She said if she couldn't have the gorilla—she just wanted to grow up with it—she didn't care for anything at all.

Well, that's pretty much the way I feel, except I don't want a baby gorilla. I want an elf. I've wanted one all my life—a good, well-trained,
obedient elf, sound of wind
and limb.

As a child I began to suspect there was something wrong with the people. Now, after 40 years of living, I've come to the conclusion they just aren't dependable. They get all mixed up.

You do a swell job of straightening things out while you're on duty, Santa, but you take a rather long vacation. What I want is one of your elves to fill in on the 364 days a year you aren't working. And I want him this year—or never.

ONE OF THE TROUBLES with civilization, probably, is that it gave up believing in elves—and is now plagued with gremlins.

What I want is a real, conscientious, old-fashioned, good-hearted elf to help me fight
the gremlins of today. Every household really needs one.

An elf would help fill the void still left in modern living despite the invention of the electric dishwasher and the all-purpose vitamin tablet. He'd take the place of the cricket on the hearth—or rather, in our house, the radiator.

There are so many things for him to do about the place. When the covers slip off me at night, no more blind groping and grunting about in the dark. He could also bite the alarm clock in the morning, give me a shave
and put the coffee pot on the stove.

ALL DAY LONG he could do little household chores like cleaning the venetian blinds and making elfin remarks to my wife. That would keep her in such good humor that when I come home, she'd say, "Let's eat at home tonight, dear. I don't feel like going out. I'm just worn out from laughing at that wonderful elf we got for Christmas."

One of his big jobs would be to answer the door and the telephone, tasks I have come to hate. "No, Mr. Boyle isn't at home," he'd say politely, "but this is his elf. Any message, sir?"

There are some days when I'd like to take him to the office. Can't you imagine all the things you could do at your office, pleasant
or mean, with the help of a 14-karat elf?

WITH MEAT COSTING what it does now,
Santa, I'd prefer a vegetarian elf, of course.
We don't have any porridge (I understand they like porridge), but perhaps you have one that could get along on carrots, blackstrap
molasses and yogurt?

Naturally, we'd guarantee him social security, a two-pants suit, a night out each week and vacations with pay. Even an elf wants to dress well and relax like everybody else.

I don't know, Santa, how long even an elf could stand the strain of Manhattan life. He may turn into a gremlin himself. But if he does, you can have him back next year.

Sincerely,

HAL BOYLE

LET US UNDERSTAND AND INSIST ON A MORAL PURPOSE FOR OUR GOVERNMENT,

THEN WE SHALL HAVE LIBERTY

-THE LIGHT THAT WILL NEVER FAIL!

GUIDE FOR FREEDOM

JUDGE ALL LAWS BY ASKING THIS QUESTION—

"DOES THIS LAW PROTECT EVERY INDIVIDUAL
IN HIS GOD-GIVEN RIGHT TO LIFE, LIBERTY AND PROPERTY FROM THE INTERFERENCE OF ANY OTHER INDIVIDUAL-OR GOVERNMENT ITSELF?"

EVERY INDIVIDUAL, in receiving the gift of LIFE from God, is given the responsibility of preserving, developing and perfecting that gift.

So every person is given INDIVIDUALITY — different faculties, different and various amounts of talent with which to assume the responsibility for his own existence.

Every individual is endowed by his Creator with the LIBERTY to use his God-given faculties for their intended purpose—and through the free use of those faculties to acquire PROPERTY.

Every individual also has a natural right, from God, to protect his God-given Life, Liberty and Property from the interference of any other individual — BECAUSE THESE THREE GIFTS OF GOD PRECEDE ALL MAN-MADE LAWS AND ARE SUPERIOR TO THEM.

Therefore, all individuals must have equal political rights and equal political duties. One group cannot claim certain rights for itself, while placing the duties on others. So if we are to keep our God-given rights—

THE PURPOSE OF OUR GOVERNMENT MUST BE—

"TO MAKE AND ENFORCE LAWS WHICH PROTECT EVERY INDIVIDUAL'S LIFE,
LIBERTY AND PROPERTY FROM THE INTER-FERENCE OF ANY OTHER INDIVIDUAL — AND THESE LAWS MUST PROTECT THE PEOPLE FROM GOVERNMENT ITSELF"

All history proves that when a government does not have this purpose it becomes immoral!

Salem Garden Club Members Make Bible Gardens 'Tour'

SALEM GARDEN CLUB "toured" the gardens of the Bible at the Christmas session Monday afternoon in the public library assembly room.

The "tour" was in the form of an inspirational talk given by Mrs. R. J. Kulow of Hubbard, who used for her theme, "Gardens Of The Bible," and from them made applications to present day living.

The human race began in a garden, the greatest sacrifice for mankind was made in a garden, and the human race will have its new beginning in a garden," Mrs. Kulow told the women.

The gardens visited included Garden of Eden, Election of the Trees, Solomon's Garden, Hanging Garden of Babylon, Garden of Gethsemane, Garden Tomb and God's New Garden.

Explains Garden
"The Bible is a beautiful circle from Genesis to Revelation," the speaker said. She believes that a garden teaches friendliness, patience, equality of people, not to judge by appearance, serenity and peace. The speaker was presented by Mrs. James Cross, program chairman.

The meeting opened with a 1:30 dinner luncheon. Red candles in silver candlesticks lighted the artistically appointed table, which was centered with an arrangement of red carnations in a silver bowl.

Mrs. L. H. Baldinger was pianist for group singing of Christmas carols. Mrs. William D. King, president, announced at the business session that Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Rummel will observe their 50 wedding anniversary Thursday. Mrs. Rummel is the oldest member of the club from the standpoint of age.

Present Gift
A gift was made to the Youngstown Garden Forum "for seeds of democracy." These seeds are sent overseas for rehabilitation planting.

Two new members—Mrs. Albert Kitzman and Mrs. W. H. O'Neill—were accepted. Members are asked to bring food for birds to the January meeting. This will be placed in the feeders at the bird sanctuary in Centennial park.

Only one change was made on the entire club program last year, Mrs. King reported. Highlights of 1951 in the club's activities included:

Planting of 12 Chinese chestnut trees, 20 flowering crabs and two magnolia trees at Centennial Park; two flowering crabs at both hospitals, and the filling of the flower beds at the entrance to Centennial Park. All the shrubbery planted in the landscaping at the new City Hall was also furnished by the club. This project was financed by two benefits sponsored by the Civic and Finance committees.

Two mulberry and four St. John Wort bushes were planted in the park bird sanctuary and also 40 bird house feeders were placed there.

Band Mothers Pay Tribute To Director Howard Pardee

THE SALEM High School now has one of the best marching bands in its history and the 62 members are good workers, according to Howard Pardee, director.

Mr. Pardee was guest speaker at a lovely Christmas dinner party given by the Band Mothers Monday evening at the Memorial building, with their husbands as guests. Other guests welcomed by Mrs. Robert Dunn, president, were Mrs. Pardee and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Howenstine. Mr. Howenstine is an assistant to Director Pardee.

The music department in the Salem schools is growing and more this year than ever before are taking music, Mr. Pardee informed the group.

Because of an instrument problem, there is not enough brass; the organization is not the concert band that it was last year, the director explained, who expects the number in the band to reach 79 by the 1952-53 season.

An invitation was accepted from the Conneaut band, who will give a concert at the high school here April 23.

Mrs. James Luke, teacher of fifth grade at Fourth Street School, paid a tribute to the work being done by Mr. Pardee for the students. She said in part:

"We are grateful that our boys and girls are being trained by so capable a director. We know they are being instructed so that each as he takes his place in the world . . . will enjoy and appreciate music not only with his ears but with his mind and heart as well."

"Because of your excellent instruction and your personal interest any student who finds a place in your class is definitely equipped to appreciate finer things in the musical world."

"Mr. Pardee, the interest you show in the boys and girls of intermediate and Junior High age has far reaching results. Even there we can see a carry-over into their other activities."

"Band mothers welcome this opportunity to express our thanks to you for the many other things that you do beyond the call of duty." At the conclusion she presented him a gift from the band mothers.

Records of three numbers on which the band received a rating of excellent at last spring's state contest in Columbus were played by Mr. Pardee. They included

"Vanished Army," "Morning, Noon and Night Vienna" and "Richard II Overture."

Mr. Howenstine led the group in carol singing, with Mrs. Howenstine at the piano. A gift exchange added pleasure.

The party committees included: Kitchen—Mrs. Hobart Butcher, Mrs. Glen M. Fair and Mrs. Howard Firestone; gifts—Mrs. John Sebo and Mrs. Amil Cosma; decorating—Mrs. Herbert Bush and Mrs. John Dupal.

Yule Theme Used At Baptist Meeting

THE HOME of Mrs. Julius Bartha of E. Fourth St., president, was prettily decorated in keeping with the Yule season when she and her associate hostesses, Mrs. Robert Hammell and Mrs. Wayne Russell, entertained members of the Baptist Young Women's Missionary Society Monday evening.

Mrs. Lester Older used for her devotional theme, "Glory of the Christ Child." Mrs. Al Kitzman told the story of "The Nativity" and reviewed the history of two Christmas carols, "Away In A Manger" and "Silent Night." Mrs. Hammell sang "Silent Night."

Game prizes were won by Mrs. R. J. Hunter, Mrs. Kitzman and Mrs. James McCullom. There was a gift exchange and food was also brought to be sent to a family in Germany.

A bouquet of white chrysanthemums and red roses centered the buffet table, which was trimmed with white tapers. Small fireplace favors were given.

Mrs. Jay Conley and Mrs. William W. Fickes were guests. The January meeting will be at the church, with Mrs. Donald Hayes, Mrs. Older and Mrs. O. J. Courtney hostesses.

Chorals Comprise Music Club Agenda

Chorals from Bach's Christmas oratoria by club members, with three special numbers, comprised the delightful program presented at a meeting of the Music Study Club Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. A. F. Huber Jr., S. Lincoln Ave. Mrs.

Meredith Livingston, president, officiated.

Mrs. Fred Sweitzer Jr. offered two vocal solos, "Prepare Thyself Zion" and "Slumber Beloved." She was accompanied by Mrs. Walter Hunston, who also played a piano solo, "Pastoral Symphony."

Accenting the holiday season, the home was made attractive with pine and bright-colored balls.

Mrs. Donald Dusenberry, who played Santa Claus, passed out the gifts in an exchange. Carols were sung by the group and the hostess served refreshments to 26 members.

The Jan. 14 meeting will be held at the home of Miss Helen Derfus, E. Second St.

TO WHITEN TOWELS

If your dish towels and table linens are beginning to look dingy and yellow despite your best laundry efforts, try this trick for whitening them. Wet them thoroughly, rub them well with soap, and hang them in the bright sunlight to bleach. When the pieces are dry, wash them as you usually do, by machine or hand, remembering to rinse extra well to remove excess soap.

how does it feel NOT TO HEAR At Christmas?

Stop a moment and think how you would feel if you COULD NOT HEAR at this most happy of holidays. The peeling of the Bells proclaiming this wonderful time of the year. The laughter, the cheery Season Greeting, the devout worship that makes Christmas mean so much to everyone of us.

No, it wouldn't be a very Merry Christmas if you could not hear . . . the crackling of the Yule Log on the hearth, the lovable sounds that come from the children on Christmas morn, the Winter Wind whistling along, carrying the joyful songs of the Carolers, sounds that are very much a real part of Christmas.

Some loved one of yours may be faced with the thought of Christmas without the hearing they deserve. Make it a real Christmas for them—a HEARING Christmas. Put a warmer glow in their heart and yours. How would you feel if you could not hear at Christmas. Remember, the joy of the gift is in the giving.

AMERICANS TURN AGAINST SOCIALIZED ELECTRICITY

A RECENT NATIONWIDE POLL BY OPINION RESEARCH CORPORATION SHOWS THAT MOST AMERICANS TODAY WANT THEIR ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER TO COME FROM LOCAL BUSINESS-MANAGED COMPANIES—NOT FROM THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT. HERE ARE SOME REASONS WHY AMERICANS FEEL THAT WAY.

DEFENSE NEEDS FIRST! PEOPLE WANT UNNECESSARY GOVERNMENT SPENDING STOPPED TO SAVE THEIR TAX DOLLARS FOR AMERICA'S DEFENSES.

GREAT WASTE

THE FEDERAL POWER PROGRAM INCLUDES BUILDING COSTLY TRANSMISSION LINES THAT WOULD DUPLICATE THE LINES OF BUSINESS-MANAGED COMPANIES. AMERICANS SAY, "LET'S NOT WASTE MANPOWER, MONEY AND MATERIAL ON SOCIALISTIC POWER PROJECTS."

IT'S SOCIALISM! THAT'S WHAT PEOPLE SAY ABOUT THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT OWNING AND OPERATING THE ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER BUSINESS.

DOUBLED IN 10 YEARS!

IN PEACE AND WAR, AMERICA'S VAST ELECTRIC POWER NEEDS HAVE BEEN WELL FILLED BY THE NATION'S BUSINESS-MANAGED COMPANIES. THEY'VE MORE THAN DOUBLED THE SUPPLY SINCE 1941 AND THEY'RE BUILDING A LOT MORE THAT ONLY A SHORTAGE OF MATERIALS CAN HOLD UP.

Youngstown Seeks Turnpike Access

COLUMBUS (AP)—Four Mahoning County Democrats said Monday they will ask the special session of the Legislature to support a request for improvement of a road giving Youngstown more direct access to the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

The four will introduce resolutions calling on the Highway Department to make the improvements. The Senate sponsor is Sen. Charles J. Carney, a Democrat. Democratic sponsors in the House are Reps. John D. Lynch, Jr., Thomas P. Barrett, and G. D. Tablack.

They urge improvement of a county road on the border between Ohio and Pennsylvania known as State-Line Road. They said that would give more direct access from the Pennsylvania Turnpike north to Route 224 and Youngstown steel plants. The western extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike will be opened to traffic this month.

Present plans call for improvement of Ohio Route 90 to connect with a Pennsylvania access road to the gateway interchange on the turnpike about a mile and one-half east from the Ohio border. Traffic also would use route 170 to reach Unity and Route 14.

When all heat is removed from an object, the temperature is called absolute zero.

6 Corn Plots Reveal W-64 Tops In Test

A hybrid corn called W-64 averaged 110 bushels per acre on six Columbiana County test plots this year and has a three-year average of 104 bushels to lead 20 other varieties.

Harry G. Smith, associate county extension agent, said 21 varieties of the hybrids were grown on the farms of William Houlette of RD 2, Columbiana, Clyde Freeman of RD 1, Lisbon, A. J. Loudon of Hanoverton, the Firestone Farms near Columbiana, Carl Lehman of RD 1, East Palestine, and W. D. Weaver of RD 2, Minerva.

Second high in production this year was Ind. 252-A with 108 bushels, followed by K-62 with 107 and C-54 with 106. Three-year averages of Ind. 252-A and K-62 are 97.8 and 96.7 respectively.

C-54 has been planted only two years, averaging 102 bushels. Smith said it is a long-season corn possibly suited to the southern half of the county.

Yields were measured at 15 1/2 per cent moisture. Results for other varieties—1951 yield followed by yearly average:

DeKalb 406, 104 (96); Iowa 4316, 104 (93); Ohio 4901, 104 (92); K-35, 102 (90); Iowa 939, 100 (85); K-14, 98 (94); DeKalb 408, 98, first year; Ohio 4905, 96 (86); Iowa 4297, 95 (94); K-25, first year.

Ohio 4902, 95 (88); K-24, 93 (88); DeKalb 459, 91 (86); DeKalb 404-A, 89 (85); W-36, 88 (90); M-15, 85 (82); DeKalb 65, 78 (76).

Individual farm results may be obtained from the Agricultural Extension Office in the county courthouse, Smith said.

How To Avoid A Lot Of Winter Driving Grief

A pile of sand in trunk to pour under rear wheels skidding on icy surface.

Keep windows open while driving to avoid possible carbon monoxide fumes.

Sometimes a car won't start because plugs are wet. Wiping them fixes this.

DO'S AND DON'TS: When motor is hot, don't turn off ignition immediately; your anti-freeze may "afterboil" and spill down overflow. When in a skid, steer in direction rear wheels are skidding. If engine is over-heated, let it cool a bit before adding water. When slowing on a slippery surface, "pump" brake, don't slam it.

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the nation's 10 most wanted men—described as ready to kill "with- out the slightest provocation; industrial Regional Claims Board, rather than be caught"—weekly walked into an FBI net yesterday.

When federal agents closed in on him as he entered a downtown Broadway office building, 34-year-old Giacchino Anthony Baccolla simply said: "I surrender."

Baccolla had been sought since June in the slaying of a Detroit witness in a federal theft case. He had been on the most-wanted list since Aug. 20.

A professional boxer turned hoodlum, Baccolla has served a term at Sing Sing Prison for armed robbery and in 1950 jumped bail in Corpus Christi, Texas, on another charge, the FBI said.

Franchot Tone Charged With Assault, Battery

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Actor Franchot Tone, in and out of the courts frequently, has another legal appointment today. He was ordered to trial on a misdemeanor assault and battery charge signed by newspaper columnist Florabel Muir.

Tone pleaded innocent Oct. 30 to Miss Muir's allegations that he kicked her feet and ankles, spat in her face, grabbed her by a pearl necklace and choked her.

Miss Muir, a writer for the New York Daily News and the Los Angeles Mirror, made a citizen's arrest of the actor at Ciro's Night Club.

Sheriff's officers said Tone told them he resented some of the columnist's articles about him. She commented frequently in her column about Tone's romance with actress Barbara Payton and his backyard brawl with actor

Tom Neal, who went him to a hospital with a broken nose and facial cuts and bruises.

Legislator Asks Voter Decision on Turnpike

COLUMBUS (AP)—Rep. George H. Kirkpatrick (R-Knox) wants the legislature to let voters decide on a $500,000,000 bond issue to finance road and bridge construction.

He introduced a joint House-Senate resolution on the proposal at a special session of the legislature yesterday.

If adopted by both houses, it would instruct the Attorney General to prepare a proposed change in the state constitution to permit the bond issue. Approval by the legislature at a next special or regular session would put it on the ballot for a decision by voters.

OSU Trustees Leave To Faculty Decision On Speaker Screening

COLUMBUS (AP)—Trustees of Ohio State University voted yesterday to let faculty members decide whether persons they invite to speak on the campus should be screened.

The modification of the controversial speaker screening rule was proposed by University President Howard L. Bevis, and was adopted by a 6-0 vote of the trustees. Trustee Robert F. Black, the seventh member of the board, was unable to attend, but the others said he approved the action.

The original rule required all invitations to speakers to be approved in advance by Dr. Bevis. Later Dr. Bevis exempted three specific groups of speakers. Under the new "interpretation," a faculty member can invite a speaker without submitting his name to Dr. Bevis, if the faculty member believes the speaker meets "generally accepted standards."

The trustees indicated persons who do not meet those standards include subversives "or those who are allied to them in purpose or action or those whose views do not contribute to the university's educational program."

If a faculty member has any doubt about a prospective speaker, he will consult his colleagues and refer the matter through his department head and dean to Dr. Bevis "for advice and action."

The trustees also set up a "committee on evaluation" to check on how the system works.

Lisbon Coaches Get 3-Year Contracts

LISBON—Football Coach Edwin (Bud) Bucher and Basketball Coach Jack Mills were awarded three-year contracts Monday night by unanimous action of the Board of Education.

Both contracts extend through the 1954-55 school year and carry a bonus clause of $1,500 a year distributed over a 12-month period.

Bucher teaches history, American government and physical education and has extra assignments as head baseball coach and assistant basketball coach. Mills teaches civics, economics and sociology and is assistant football coach.

In other actions the board voted to:

Hold open house at 2 p.m. Sunday in the new McKinley School; move the fifth grade class, now in the Christian Church, into the all-purpose room at McKinley effective Monday morning; give the vocational agriculture class permission to appear on radio broadcasts over an East Liverpool station;

Accept the Firestone Bank as a depository for school funds for two years, hire Miss Rella Muntean as a special teacher for Mary Jane Morella, an eighth grade pupil who will be out of school this year because of polio;

$100,000 Fire Strikes Huntington Businesses

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Another in a two-year series of costly fires struck the Huntington business district today, burning out a delicatessen and threatening one of the city's largest department stores.

The flames turned Victor's Delicatessen on Third Ave. near 10th St. into a hollow shell.

Both the Bradshaw-Diehl department store, crammed with Christmas goods, and a tavern on the other side of the delicatessen suffered smoke and water damage.

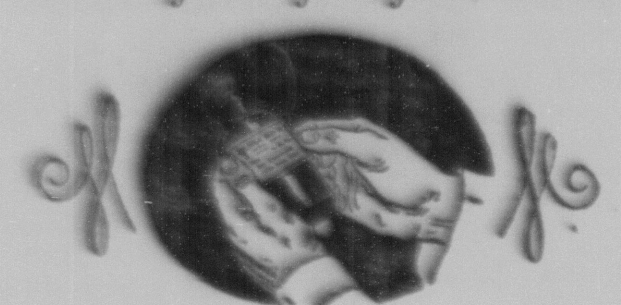

The loss was estimated by Fire Chief Floyd L. Crouse at $100,000.

CIO, U. S. Steel Resume Pay Talks

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Negotiators of U. S. Steel Corporation and the CIO-United Steelworkers return to the conference room today for another discussion of the union's new contract demands.

Neither side commented at the end of a 2½ hour meeting yesterday which followed a weekend recess.

The negotiators face a deadline of Midnight, Dec. 31, 1951, when the steelworkers' contract expires.

Philip Murray, president of both the CIO and the Steelworkers, is asking a "substantial" wage boost for his men who now average about $1.95 an hour. Other demands include a guaranteed annual wage, union shop and an improved pay incentive plan.

About 155,000 of the steelworkers' million members are employed by U. S. Steel. Negotiations with most other steel companies are in recess. Usually U. S. Steel sets the pattern followed by the rest of the industry.

Scholarship Tests To Be Held Feb. 2

LISBON—General scholarship tests for high school seniors in the upper forty per cent of their class will be held Saturday, Feb. 2, in Lisbon High School, James L. McBride, superintendent of Columbiana County schools and test chairman, announced today.

Schools with 20 or more pupils may hold their own tests, McBride said. Salem and East Liverpool had their own exams last year, while all other county high schools sent their pupils to Lisbon.

The test is useful in locating capable boys and girls who should go on to college, McBride said. It covers five subjects, English, history, mathematics, science and reading. Pupils pay a 50-cent fee.

Three county principals comprise the committee—E. D. Rummel of Leetonia, George Nace of Lisbon and Harry Laber of East Palestine.

Two from County File As 1952 Candidates

The Columbiana County Election Board today recorded the first two candidates' filings for ballot places in the 1952 elections.

Clerk of Courts John W. Coleman of Glenmoor filed for re-nomination for a fourth term on the Republican ticket and James G. Gruber of Lisbon entered as a Democratic Candidate for state representative.

Both candidates had announced earlier that they would enter the May 6 primaries.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Cincinnati's champions today dominated the Mid-American Conference all-star football team selected by the Associated Press with the aid of the sturdy league's six head coaches.

Sid Gillman's powerful Bearcats, unbeaten and untied in the Mid-American, grabbed eight of the 22 places on the two-platoon squad. The selections are regarded as official by Commissioner "Uncle Dave" Reese's conference.

Miami's Redskins, shorn of the conference laurels for the first time in three years, won five berths. Kent State, freshman member of the circuit, and Ohio University won two each, while a pair went to Western Michigan, and one to Western Reserve's freshman-studded combine.

The Bearcat domination of the Mid-American was the greatest in its history, Cincinnati taking four line berths and two backfield positions on the offensive team, and one in each sector on defense.

The offensive quarterback is Cincinnati's Gene Rossi, of Youngstown, who completed 15 of 25 passes, without an interception, for 227 yards and two touchdowns. At halfbacks are Jack Mancos of Kent State, who tied the conference scoring record with six touchdowns in his first season, and Johnny Pont, the team's leading ground-gainer from Miami, who hit the heights for the third straight campaign.

Here are the 1951 selections:

Sanitary Demings, A & P, N Club Fall As Class A Cage Loop In Inaugurated

The Class A league of the city leagues got underway last night with eight teams seeing action in the nine-team loop.

Mullins, Amvets, CIO and Moffett and Hone captured victories on the initial night at the Memorial Building hardwood as Demings, Sanitary, A and P, and the N Club fell, respectively.

THE MANUFACTURERS edged out the Pumper outfit, 62-58, as the score saw-sawed throughout the entire game. The Amvets whipped the Sanitary by a mere six points, 42-36.

CIO won a low scoring game over the A and P, 28-18, while Moffett and Hone captured a one-sided 70-34 victory.

The Mullins-Demings game was the thriller of the evening as the game wasn't decided until the latter part of the fourth quarter. Sam Pridon delivered scoring honors with Ju-Ju Alek of Moffett and Hone as they each tallied 23 markers.

Pridon was constantly rebounding and could always be counted on for points throughout the game. Ed Bozich tallied 18 before fouling out in the last period to help the Mullins cause while Don Abrams and Dick Wyss netted 15 and 14 for the Pumpers, respectively.

The Amvets and Sanitary battled to a tight Amvet victory in the initial game of the evening as the Sanitary gave the winners much more competition than they expected.

The Vets led 21-19 at halftime and finally ended ahead of the Sanitary, 42-36. Dick Treleven, former all-Ohio cager, and John Pridon led the Amvets with 9 and 8 points although the Amvets scoring was divided fairly even.

CIO led the A and P, 17-1 at half and continued on in the first, low scoring tilt of the year, 28-18. Dave White led the winning five with 8 markers although the CIO scoring was also evenly divided.

The final game of the night saw the Moffett and Hone team rack up 70 points in a victory over the N Club, who managed only 34 markers.

Alek led the winners with his 23 points.

Tonight the Class B teams take the floor and the evening should be packed with plenty of action as five games are on the slate.

NBA Warns Boxers To Defend Titles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three world's champion boxers have been warned: The National Boxing Association wants only fighting champions, and if titles aren't defended, they'll be forfeited.

The warnings were made in letters sent out by the NBA yesterday.

The bluntest warning went to Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba. Gavilan must sign a contract within 10 days to fight Charles Humez of France, the NBA said, or his title will be taken away from him.

Col. Harvey Miller, executive secretary of the NBA, said Gavilan had been given the title only on the condition that he would give Humez, the European champion, a crack at it.

Heavyweight Champion Jersey Joe Walcott and Light Heavyweight Champion Joey Maxim were reminded that they have only three more months in which to decide whom they will meet in title fights.

To help Walcott and Maxim with their homework, the NBA obligingly listed the fighters it thinks most entitled to the chance.

For Walcott: Rocky Marciano of Massachusetts, Clarence Henry of California and Ezzard Charles of Ohio are "logical contenders."

For Maxim: Archie Moore of Missouri and Harry Matthews of Washington are the logical choices, the NBA said.

Open House Basketball Event Set For Thursday

Salem basketball fans will be treated to a preview of the 1951-52 cage season Thursday night at the Salem High School gym when Coach John Cabas puts his Quakers through their paces for the benefit of the public.

It's the annual "basketball open house" which Cabas introduced to Salem fans last year and is continuing the affair this season.

THE IDEA BEHIND the public invited event is to relate fans with the type of system that Cabas is teaching his Salem team. "Many fans go to the games and follow the team everywhere it goes but some don't understand what type of basketball we are playing," said Cabas. "We want our fans to know how we are working and that is the purpose of the open house this Thursday."

The Quaker coach will put his team through a regular practice session Thursday to show Salem followers just what goes on during workouts. "We do nothing in practice that we don't do in a game," said the Salem mentor who is in his second year with Salem teams.

CABAS WELCOMES the public to attend the open house and watch himself and his team in action. "We are coaching these boys just as we were coached or just as we would like to be coached. Chet Tetlow and I watch every boy on the squad and each player gets some coaching and is never forgotten," related Cabas. Tetlow is tutoring the Reserves this season.

Twelve varsity men will be on hand for the open house which

Stanky Due To Sign Contract; DiMaggio May Announce Plans

NEW YORK, (AP)—Eddie Stanky is due to sign a two-year contract as player-manager of the St. Louis Cardinals today and Joe DiMaggio will announce his future plans.

The Stanky and DiMaggio developments probably will overshadow the seven-player deal completed last night between the Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phils.

In the only official swap of the winter meetings, Cincinnati sent Pitcher Howie Fox (9-14), Second Baseman Connie Ryan (234) and Catcher Forrest Burgess (257) to Phils for Catcher Andy Seminick (233), Outfielder Dick Sisler (287), Pitcher Niles Jordan (2-3) and Infielder Eddie Pellagrini (234).

Stanky's switch to St. Louis for Pitcher Max Lanier (11-9) and Outfielder Chuck Diering (259) hinges on an agreement between the peppy little second baseman and Fred Saigh, Card owner. That is a foregone conclusion.

Saigh and Stanky talked on the telephone last night and will compromise on a two-year contract at $37,500 when Eddie flies into St. Louis today to meet his new boss.

Although the Giants and Cards didn't announce the players involved in the Stanky deal, it was learned Lanier and Diering are the men. There was a slight complication last night when Lanier said his St. Petersburg restaurant business might keep him out of baseball next year.

Lanier, 36-year-old veteran lefty, would bolster the Giant staff and Diering, a good-field, no-hit center fielder, would provide center field insurance in case Willie Mays is drafted.

Stanky, who played 145 games last year and hit .247 for the pennant-winning Giants, expects to play second base for his Cards. In that case, Red Schoendienst might be shifted to first base. As Giant leadoff man Eddie walked 127 times last season and hit 14 homers.

The DiMaggio announcement will settle the future of the 37-year-old star with the $100,000 salary. Joe told reporters after the World Series that he had played his last game, but held off positive retirement at the request of the Yanks owners.

Since Dizzy Dean left the Yanks to take another job, the television job is open. There are strong reports DiMaggio will man the TV-mike at Yankee Stadium for the next three years at $50,000 per.

Baby Killed In Fire

Near Newcomerstown

NEWCOMERTOWN (AP) — Eleven-month-old Ralph Kiziah was burned to death today in a fire that destroyed a four-room frame house three miles from here.

The baby's mother, Mrs. John Kiziah and two older children were downstairs when the blaze started. They were blocked by flames from getting to the second-floor room of the victim.

THE SONGS OF CHRISTMAS

It was Christmas Eve, 1818, in the little village of Oberdorf, high up in the Austrian Alps.

The young parish priest, Joseph Mohr, was discussing preparations for the Christmas celebration. Father Mohr had given much thought to the composing of a beautiful Christmas song.

But in the church nearby, where Franz Gruber, the organist, was practicing, a calamity occurred. The organ broke down!

3 Canton Children Die In House Trailer Blaze

CANTON — A fire in a house trailer took the lives of three children of Mr. and Mrs. Mads Friestrup in Canton yesterday.

The children, Clara, 1, Arthur, 2, and Flora, 3, were pronounced dead of suffocation at Mercy Hospital after firemen battled flames to remove them from the trailer.

The mother told sheriff's deputies that she left the children to make a phone call half a mile away at a neighbor's house.

Firemen believe the smoke and fire were caused by a faulty pipe in a heating stove.

The longest daily non-stop train run is said to be that of the "Flying Scotman," between Kings Cross and Edinburgh, a distance of 397.7 miles.

Wall Street

Stocks Very Quiet Decline Slightly

NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks declined irregularly early today in quiet dealings.

Trading in the first hour was highly restricted with the exception of two railroad issues which dominated. Investors generally are holding to the sidelines pending developments in Washington on the foreign situation.

In the carriers, Canadian Pacific was active. The stock opened more than a point lower, but later it came back to 36 1/2. Directors of CP after the market closed yesterday declared a dividend of 75 cents a share, bringing payments for the year to $1.50 a share, the same as in 1950. New York Central also was traded briskly. It improved 3/4 to 19.

Elsewhere, steel shares were mixed. Bethlehem Steel added 1/4 to 50 1/2 and U. S. Steel slipped 1/4 to 40 1/4. Chrysler and General Motors were unchanged in their group.

Herada Petroleum led the oils lower with a decline a point to 150. Skelly fell the same amount to 86 1/2. Chemicals were mixed.

Sales in the first hour of dealings totaled 310,000 shares, compared 280,000 in the same period yesterday.

Weekend Jail Terms Levied On 2 Vandals

Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin instituted a new practice at a hearing Monday in Lisbon when he ordered weekend jail terms for two of six youths who wrecked the interior of a Hillcrest summer home owned by Cletus Patterson, Wellsville contractor.

The damage was done the weekend of Dec. 1. All six boys were made wards of the court.

Two ringleaders will spend time in solitary to think it over at the Juvenile Detention Room at East Liverpool City Hall. One will be locked up from Friday afternoon to Monday morning and the other from Dec. 21-24.

The case will be continued for final disposition until the end of the school year. Four of the boys go to Fairview School in Hillcrest and two to Wellsville.

Judge Tobin sounded this warning for juvenile miscreants: "It will be a fixed rule of this court in cases warranting such action to give juveniles lock-up sentences to show them the consequences of their acts."
